

A primary tool used in the management of Colorado's big-game animals is a limit, or quota, on the number of licenses issued in most game management units (GMUs). When applying for a limited license, a preference point is awarded when an individual is unsuccessful in drawing their first-choice hunt code and had no errors on their application. Preference points provide a mathematical advantage when applied to future drawings.

Some things to remember:

- Preference points are awarded by species, not hunt code. A point can be used to apply for any draw license available for that species.
- A preference point is awarded only for unsuccessful applications for a first-choice hunt code.
- Hunt codes are an eight-character code used to designate species, sex, GMU, season and method of harvest. For example, a hunt code of E-E-050-O1-R would be for elk, either sex, GMU 50, first season, rifle.
- Use a preference point hunt code if your goal is to accumulate points for use toward a future quality hunt.
- For bear, elk, deer and pronghorn, you will accumulate preference points until you are successful in drawing a first-choice license. If you draw your first choice, your preference points drop down to zero, regardless of the minimum number of points it takes to draw in a specific unit. In other words, if it takes two points to draw a first-choice tag, and a hunter has accumulated four points, then all four preference points will be used if the first choice is drawn. There is no "banking" of preference points.
- If you do not apply or hold a license for that species at least once within 10 consecutive years for a bear, elk, deer, pronghorn, moose, mountain goat or bighorn sheep, your preference points for that species will be lost. Applying for a preference point for the species keeps your file active.
- For bighorn sheep, moose and mountain goat, an applicant can accumulate a maximum of three points. Future applications are pooled with other three-point applicants. If you are unsuccessful in the pooled drawing, a "mathematically weighted" point is awarded to increase the probability of drawing a future license.
- If you do not apply at least once within a 10-consecutive-year period for a bighorn sheep, moose or mountain goat license, your preference points will be lost. Applying for a preference point for the species keeps your file active.
- Nonresident allocations are determined by the average number of preference points a Colorado resident needed to draw a specific license during a 3-year period that ended with the 2009 drawing. For hunt codes that required six or more points for a Colorado resident to draw an elk or deer license, up to 20 percent may go to non-residents. For hunt codes that required fewer than six points for a Colorado resident to draw an elk or deer license, up to 35 percent may go to nonresidents. Non-resident allocations may increase if licenses remain after drawing all first-choice hunt codes for Colorado residents.

- The following lists show the last point at which a license was drawn for a specific hunt code in 2016. The last point drawn listed does not denote that all applicants at that level drew, but that at least one applicant at that level drew. Quotas and applicant pools change from year-to-year, so a hunt code that takes 2 preference points to draw in 2016 may take more (or less) the following year. Unsuccessful applicants will be awarded a preference point for use in future drawings.
- A Colorado Habitat Stamp is required in order to buy or apply for a license. The Habitat Stamp may be purchased online, by phone or at any Colorado Parks and Wildlife office or license agent.
- New units in 2017 will not be listed in the following tables because they do not have any data from previous years.

How long will it take to draw a license?

Statistics from previous years may be used to estimate the approximate time required to successfully draw a license. For example: If a unit allowed 20 licenses with 60 applicants, zero preference points required, 40 were unsuccessful. These 40 were awarded a preference point.

Assuming that the quota for this unit remained the same for the next year, and these 40 apply, 20 will draw a license using their preference point and 20 will be awarded a second point. An applicant with no points may be able to draw a license in three years if this pattern persists.

Things to know when reading the lists:

Float – Quotas marked with "Float" indicate licenses of the same sex that are shared between two or more seasons.

* – An asterisk indicates that at least one license was available as a leftover after the primary draw process.

+ – A plus sign means additional GMUs are included in this hunt code.

Res. = Resident points. NR = Nonresident points.

Preference-point requirements can be found at the Colorado Parks and Wildlife website by clicking the "Hunting" link, proceeding to the "Big Game" link, and finding the information under the "Statistics" link. There are separate tables for each species. Preference-point requirements have the ability to change dramatically from year to year based upon the number of applications and the number of licenses issued for each unit, but usually don't vary much from year to year. Table with columns: Unit, Hunt Code, Quota, Choice 1 Applicants, Drawn Adult Res, Drawn Adult NR, Youth Res, Youth NR, Season. Rows 70 to 91.

- Leftover = licenses remained available after the draw was completed
• No Apps = no applicants participated
• None Drawn = no applications were drawn
• N/A = Program/Applicant type is not eligible for the hunt
• Float = Quotas marked with "Float" indicate licenses of the same sex that are shared between two or more seasons.

- # Pref Pts = the minimum preference point used when the last license was drawn as a Choice 1; does not include licenses drawn in the hybrid draw
• Choice # = the last license was drawn as a 2nd, 3rd or 4th choice hunt
• Leftover Choice # = in the LPP Landowner/Leftover draw, the last license was drawn as a leftover 1st, 2nd or 3rd choice hunt
• 3+ Pref Points = in the weighted draw, the last license drawn used 3 regular preference points and weighted preference points
